

Referenser

- 1) Svennerlind, C., Nilsson, T., Kérekés, N., Andiné, P., Lagerkvist, M., Forsman, A., Anckarsäter, H., & Malmgren, H. (2010): Mentally disordered criminal offenders in the Swedish criminal system. International Journal of Law and Psychiatry, 33, 220-226.
- 2) Anckarsäter, H., & Radovic, S. (red.)(2010): Tillräknelighet. Lund: Studentlitteratur.
- 3) Engström, I. (2006): Tvingad till hjälp: om tvång, etik och tillit i barn- och ungdomspsykiatrisk vård. Lund: Studentlitteratur.
- 4) Svenaeus, F. (2007): Do antidepressants affect the self? A phenomenological analysis. Medicine, Health Care and Philosophy, 10, 202-11.
- 5) Brülde, B., & Radovic, F. (2006): What is mental about mental disorder? Philosophy, Psychiatry, and Psychology, 12, 99-116.
- 6) Malmgren, H. (2005): The theoretical basis of the biopsychosocial model. I White, P. (ed.), Biopsychosocial Medicine: An integrated approach to understanding Illness, 21-38. Oxford: Oxford University Press.
- 7) Radovic, F., & Radovic, S. (2003): Feelings of unreality: A conceptual and phenomenological analysis of the language of depersonalization. Philosophy, Psychiatry, and Psychology, 9, 271-279.
- 8) Malmgren, H., Radovic, S., Thorén, H., & Haglund, B. (2010): A philosophical view of concepts in psychiatry. International Journal of Law and Psychiatry, 33, 66-72.
- 9) Salloun, I.M., & Mezzich, J.E. (eds.) (2009): Psychiatric Diagnosis: Challenges and Prospects. Chichester, UK: Wiley-Blackwell.